

Thinking Of Bathroom Renovations

5 Reasons To Use A Hanging Vanity

One of the latest styles of vanities chosen for bathroom renovations is the hanging vanity. ‘Hanging vanities’ generally describes vanities that are wall mounted rather than ones which stand on the floor. Some people see them as an integral part of their bathroom’s design, others don’t appreciate them quite as much. Either way, there is no doubt; hanging vanities are quickly growing in popularity, especially with younger home owners.

Hanging vanities are especially appreciated by tradies and home handymen carrying out bathroom renovations for a number of reasons,

- they usually have a streamlined appearance, few if any door handles, and no extra trimmings. They add to the basic and uncluttered minimalist style, now set to be one of the most popular and long standing fashions in house décor. The mantra for minimalist decorating is simply ‘less is more’, expressed through fuss-free, functional fittings and furnishings that are well chosen, well placed and lacking any frills or adornments.

- hanging vanities are popular for properties that have limited sized bathrooms; such as units, town houses, or even larger homes that have multiple smaller bathrooms. Their uncluttered style can make petite bathroom areas appear much larger.
- all those who are time-poor, and who isn’t these days, usually love hanging vanities because they are relatively quick and easy to clean. As we’ve already said, one aspect of their style is smooth, clean lines and often no lips or ridges – making them especially speedy and uncomplicated to wipe down after use. And there aren’t any little frustrating corners at the bottom of the vanity which are impossible to keep clean due to a build-up of dust, pieces of shaving and debris.

- well-chosen hanging vanities can be an effective focal point in bathrooms which tend to be more functional and lacking in good design expression. Bathroom renovations that are designed around a specially chosen hanging vanity can certainly have high ‘wow’ factor. Some renovators use one that’s a contrasting colour, finish or material to nearly everything else in a minimalist bathroom – definitely something that will ‘grab’ visitor’s attention as they enter the bathroom.
- there is an excellent range of hanging vanities available - different colours and shapes designed to work in the a variety of combinations of wood, ceramic, tiled and rock décor.
